1	Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow: <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. Wilma Rudolph was born in 1940 in Tennessee, the 20th of 22 children in a poor African American family. Early in her life, Wilma faced enormous obstacles. At the age of four, she contracted polio, a disease that left her left leg paralyzed. Doctors told her family that she might never walk again. However, her mother refused to give up hope and dedicated herself to Wilma's recovery, travelling hours to get the best treatment available.</li><li>2. Wilma's determination to walk was remarkable. With her mother's support, she practised walking every day, first with a brace, then with the help of crutches. After years of hard work and countless hours of physical therapy, Wilma defied the odds by learning to walk without any assistance by age 12.</li><li>3. But Wilma didn't stop there. Inspired by her love for running, she decided to pursue track and field, despite having to overcome the physical limitations of her leg. She practised tirelessly, eventually making to high school team. She was later noticed by a coach from Tennessee State University, who helped her develop her athletic skills.</li><li>4. Her hard work paid off. In 1960, Wilma competed in the Olympics in Rome, where she became the first American woman to win three gold medals in track and field in a single Olympic Games. Wilma's achievements inspired millions and challenged perceptions about physical limitations. Her story taught people around the world that with courage, determination, and support from loved ones, even the most seemingly impossible goals could be achieved.</li><li>5. Today, Wilma Rudolph is remembered as a trailblazer, not only for her athletic success but for her resilience in the face of adversity. Her journey serves as a reminder that limitations do not define us—our courage and determination do.</li></ol> 1. Which of the following best represents Wilma Rudolph's primary motivation to succeed in athletics? <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>(a) A desire to prove her doctors wrong about her leg</li><li>(b) A love for running and determination to overcome personal challenges</li><li>(c) Her family's financial struggles and need for fame</li><li>(d) Encouragement from her high school teammates</li></ol> 2. Assertion (A): Wilma Rudolph's story is often cited as an example of resilience. Reason (R): Despite her physical limitations and humble beginnings, she became an Olympic champion through sheer determination. <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>(a) Both A and R are true, and R is the correct explanation of A.</li><li>(b) Both A and R are true, but R is not the correct explanation of A.</li><li>(c) A is true, but R is false.</li><li>(d) A is false, but R is true.</li></ol> 3. In what way does Wilma Rudolph's life story contrast with typical expectations of someone with her early life challenges? <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>(a) She received more support from society than most people.</li><li>(b) She allowed her physical limitations to define her identity.</li></ol>	5

	(c) Unlike most people in her situation, she achieved extraordinary success despite the odds. (d) She had fewer ambitions than others with similar challenges. 4.
